

Collective Worship

“There is nothing sweeter in the world of existence than prayer...”

‘Abdu'l-Bahá

Responding to the inmost longing of every human heart to commune with its Maker, people are uniting in prayer and meditation and sharing a pattern of life distinguished for its devotional character. Prayer and worship are central aspects of one’s spiritual life, both as an individual and as a community. Prayer can be likened to food for the soul, and is not limited to words but is a state of being that finds expression in our deeds. Gatherings for devotion have no set forms of prayer or meditation and are free from rituals.
